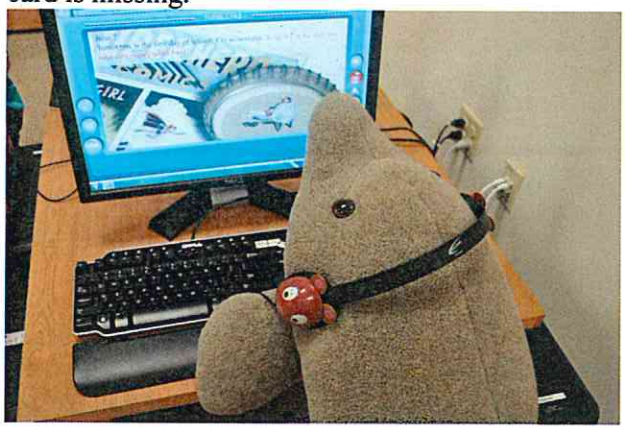
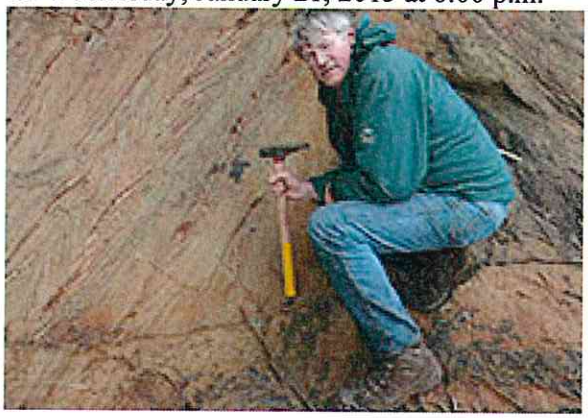
LIBRARY

In the dead of night when the stuffed animals have their library sleepover, you never know what mischief is going to transpire. We set up a nanny cam to capture all the cavorting and caught this dolphin using the computer. Moments before this benign photo was snapped he was shopping online at Etsy and my credit card is missing.



Listening to the Land is back at the library and the first presentation is "Rising from the Sea", with local geologist Tom Horning. Tom will take us on a trip through space and time to examine how Oregon's coastal landscape became what it is.

The mountains that define our eastern horizon were once a volcanic seafloor, and our most familiar headlands are remnants of North America's largest lava flow. If you're interested in the geologic history of our region then drop in on Wednesday, January 21, 2015 at 6:00 p.m.



FIRE DEPARTMENT

SEASIDE FIRE DEPARTMENT ANNUAL BANQUET!

Joey Daniels, Seaside Fire Chief started the banquet out this year by asking all spouses and significant others to stand up to give them all a round of applause because without their support the department would not be able to run 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and cover the record setting 1140 calls that Seaside Fire & Rescue responded to in 2014. Chief Daniels thanked all personnel for their hard work and strong response throughout the year. The Seaside Fire & Rescue would not be the elite department that it is without their ongoing commitment of always striving to be better.

The following awards were given out:

Years of Service –
Genesee Dennis – 5 years
Evan Edwards – 5 years
Todd French – 5 years
Seth Collins – 10 years
Tom Hecox – 20 years
Chris Dugan – 25 years

Retirement Awards –
William Mitchell (13 years of service)

Top 5 for Call Response – Out of 1140
Evan Edwards - 646 Calls
Kyle Mergel - 551 Calls
Collin Houston - 458 Calls
Lisa Talamantez – 438 Calls
Roy Dague – 416 Calls

Top 5 Drills Made - Out of 48
Evan Edwards – 47 (98%) drills made
Katy Bulletset – 45 (94%) drills made
Roy Dague - 45 (94%) drills made
Nobel Hutchinson – 44 (92%) drills made
Kyle Mergel – 44 (92%) drills made

EMS Provider of the year – Lisa Talamantez

Firefighter of the year – Evan Edwards

BIG LOSER CHALLENGE UPDATE!

Our teams are in place and things are getting tense! The City of Seaside employees have three teams in the competition for the Big Loser challenge put on by the Sunset Empire Parks & Recreation. Our teams include staff from the Police Dept. (A Losing Combination), Fire Dept. & Public Works (Waisted Away), and City Hall (City Lites). The competition started last week. We will keep you updated! This is going to be a very tough competition! Let's cheer on our co-workers to victory!

Sunset Empire Park & Recreation District Announces Adoption of a New Logo

SEASIDE, OR. – The Sunset Empire Park & Recreation District (SEPRD) announced today that its current logo will be getting a makeover in the next two weeks. The District's Board Members voted unanimously in favor of the new design during its December 17, 2014 meeting.

"Our current logo has represented the District well over the past few decades," said General Manager, Justin Cutler. "However, its intricacy and fine lines create a challenge for our outside vendors for the production of tee shirts and banners. Instead, we have opted for a design that will simplify printing and will represent us well into the future."

The Park & Recreation District enlisted the help of local Graphic Artist, Kevin Ames, in creating the new design. Ames was also the designer for the Seaside Farmer's Market logo, winning the top spot in the logo design contest this past summer.
